*On one hundred West and one-ten North once stood a building of inestimable worth,
Not for what it was, though to some it was a Bundle,
but for an idea whose beginnings were ever so humble.
On a yellow notepad the plans were drawn,
it was indeed, the stuff that dreams are made on.*

In the spring of what year was the idea sprung?

2 1960

This building once anchored the corner of Main.

With 92 rooms,

it was anything but plain.

It still Sizzles in the memories of some,

But now it is remembered with a marker of stone.

During WWII who stayed in the building?

3 Pilot Trainees

Near the Main park in our town
Stands a woman of renown
Too few of us know
Why she there stands
But she had great affect
In far off lands.
So stop by and meet
The heroine of China
As a resident of Cedar
There aren't any finer.

What was the name of the cooperative she helped found?

5 Gung-ho

It's time to go looking for incredible art.
This five paneled mural represents the Cedar People and is a great place to start.

Hint: this mural is found in a cluster of art near Center and 100 West.

What is the title of the panel furthest to the right?

This building is found on the grounds at the Beverley and on it a plaque, placed ever so cleverly, is the name of the man by which the building is known That's right, you guessed it, it's Randall L. Jones!

Now go find that plaque tucked in by the stairs,
and write the Roman numeral date that you find there.

A steeple and clock,
Crown this building of rock

What is the year found on the cornerstone?

8 1931

This stately fellow was mayor
For a team of wagons he was a conveyor
He brought 36 down
To settle our town
It's a good thing he didn't arrive any later.

Who is he?

HINT: he's in front of the Old Post Office

9 Henry Lunt

This downtown landmark offered something unique,
It could take you to new worlds without you leaving your seat.
Waiting in line 'neath the distinct neon glow
This is a place where first-time daters would go.
Laughter and tears, thrills and cheers
All of these things were often found here.

What business recently opened in this building?

10 Ganache-d Gourmet Brownies

Once the stopping place
For the great iron horse
Where people embarked
On an adventurous course
It is now home to deliciously palatable treats
And Chinese cuisine that can't be beat.

A building with BOOTS on its side is nearly restored to its prime.
It once had rooms you could rent,
but is now a space for events,
you should stop by and check out inside.
